- GALILEO GALILEI -

Galileo Galilei spent 18 years in Venice, which he later described as the happiest of his life. He entered the most lively intellectual circles and became friend of scientist Gianfrancesco Sagredo, who was later remembered in the "Dialogue Concerning the Two Chief World Systems", and scientist Paolo Sarpi, who introduced Galileo to the first Dutch telescopes. The great skills of Murano glassmakers played a key role in Galileo's improvement of this invention.
